While Tampa Bay is the Cinderella story and it always feels good to root them on, the Phillies are just as hungry and I think their maturity will make all the difference. As for the baseball purists, both these teams have been built on the farm system and either way, this match up proves that lower payroll teams can be successful and that in itself is inspiring. However, after recently being in Philly, the brotherly love and hospitality they showered me with makes me biased, so I'm hoping the Phillies bring it home!
